"Never use disability as an excuse not to achieve success."

KOTA KINABALU: One must never use his or her disability as an excuse not to achieve success.

Jailani, who had four children, also said two of his children had suffered from impaired vision that will cause him losing both his eyesight.

He said that since his father suffered a stroke, he had become the sole breadwinner of the family. He had decided to quit and give up as it was not easy for him to pursue his studies.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on the stage when I received my scroll. I had tears in my eyes and I'm sure it's definitely not tears of happiness," he said.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on my side as I received my scroll because she was born when I first started with my studies. She had been there throughout my studies, too, and I expected her to be there with me during my graduation," he said.

He also recalled the time when he was suffering from Impaired Vision that will cause him losing both his eyesight and his one-year-old son who suffered from Hydrocephalus or 'water on the brain', which is a build-up of access fluid on the brain.

He was in tears when he told the press that he lost his daughter three weeks ago and his father two days prior to the convocation.

"It was a terrible experience for me because I knew that I should be happy going up the stage to receive my scroll. I had tears in my eyes and I'm sure it's definitely not tears of happiness," he said.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on my side as I received my scroll because she was born when I first started with my studies. She had been there throughout my studies, too, and I expected her to be there with me during my graduation," he said.

Jailani, who had four children, also said two of his children had suffered from impaired vision that will cause him losing both his eyesight. He said that since his father suffered a stroke, he had become the sole breadwinner of the family. He had decided to quit and give up as it was not easy for him to pursue his studies.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on the stage when I received my scroll. I had tears in my eyes and I'm sure it's definitely not tears of happiness," he said.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on my side as I received my scroll because she was born when I first started with my studies. She had been there throughout my studies, too, and I expected her to be there with me during my graduation," he said.

Jailani, who had four children, also said two of his children had suffered from impaired vision that will cause him losing both his eyesight. He said that since his father suffered a stroke, he had become the sole breadwinner of the family. He had decided to quit and give up as it was not easy for him to pursue his studies.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on the stage when I received my scroll. I had tears in my eyes and I'm sure it's definitely not tears of happiness," he said.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on my side as I received my scroll because she was born when I first started with my studies. She had been there throughout my studies, too, and I expected her to be there with me during my graduation," he said.

Jailani, who had four children, also said two of his children had suffered from impaired vision that will cause him losing both his eyesight. He said that since his father suffered a stroke, he had become the sole breadwinner of the family. He had decided to quit and give up as it was not easy for him to pursue his studies.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on the stage when I received my scroll. I had tears in my eyes and I'm sure it's definitely not tears of happiness," he said.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on my side as I received my scroll because she was born when I first started with my studies. She had been there throughout my studies, too, and I expected her to be there with me during my graduation," he said.

Jailani, who had four children, also said two of his children had suffered from impaired vision that will cause him losing both his eyesight. He said that since his father suffered a stroke, he had become the sole breadwinner of the family. He had decided to quit and give up as it was not easy for him to pursue his studies.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on the stage when I received my scroll. I had tears in my eyes and I'm sure it's definitely not tears of happiness," he said.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on my side as I received my scroll because she was born when I first started with my studies. She had been there throughout my studies, too, and I expected her to be there with me during my graduation," he said.

Jailani, who had four children, also said two of his children had suffered from impaired vision that will cause him losing both his eyesight. He said that since his father suffered a stroke, he had become the sole breadwinner of the family. He had decided to quit and give up as it was not easy for him to pursue his studies.

"I wanted my late daughter to be on the stage when I received my scroll. I had tears in my eyes and I'm sure it's definitely not tears of happiness," he said.