TUESDAY, 18 APRIL – Staff at the Faculty of Humanities, Arts and Heritage (FKSW), Universiti Malaysia Sabah (UMS) were urged to change for the better, for the benefit of the faculty, and to mould and develop its students to become agent of change.

The symbiotic relationship between students, university and society complements each other well, said the Dean of FKSU, Professor Dr. Ismail Ibrahim.

"Students need society because society is the social constituent whilst universities need people because society will contribute to social development," he said.

He said this in his Message themed "Here, Life and Mind Unite: Basic Integrity, the Fundamentals of Faculty", held at Theatre Ahmad Nisfu, FKSU Arts Block, UMS, recently.

"FKSU will continue to strengthen the fundamentals of the university's system, which include its academicians, paperwork, research and discussions.

"Emphasis would also go to management and administration, at the same time generating income for financial sustainability," he further added.

The event also included a Meeting with all Programmes at FKSU where each Head of Programme, including all Deputy Deans presented their plans and achievements.

Also present were the Deputy Dean of Academic and International, Dr. Marsitah Mohd Radzi and Deputy Dean of Student Affairs and Alumni, Dr. Mohamad Puad Bebit.
